MSH International Conquers the American Market, Bringing Tailored Solutions to International Health Insurance

Toronto, May 2nd, 2018 - MSH International, leader in the design and management of international benefits solutions for globally mobile individuals, has confirmed its desire to expand its business in the North American market with its recent merger with Imagine Financial and Intrepid 24/7 — both groups of Ingle International. The company is now announcing new offices, new staff, and enhanced offerings for the international mobility benefits and high-risk insurance marketplace.

The move has given a significant boost to the influence of MSH International's partners and accentuated its desire to become the reference in the international health insurance market.

Through the merger, MSH has expanded its American footprint and relocated its head office to Toronto, enhancing the renewal of the brand. MSH now holds offices in Vancouver, Toronto, Montréal, Philadelphia, and Houston, along with an advanced operations centre in Calgary. Joining MSH International is Robin Ingle, CEO, and Pamela Kwiatkowski, Senior VP Distribution & Client Experience. These executives bring extensive industry experience and renowned reputation for hard work and success. As the company continues to grow, they elaborate strong strategic business developments, ready to hit the ground running.

MSH International's reinvigorated team is also supported by its key people—the company's most valuable assets. The company has appointed a strong group of motivated sales and marketing teams who look forward to work with our existing partners and establishing new ones to meet the needs of today's travelers.

MSH International's strengths now resides in its enhanced line of products and service offerings that can cover all the international mobility benefits and high-risk needs. Expatriates, international employees, students and travellers from around the globe will access a greater set of benefits, leveraged by technologies and innovations for a better plan usage and experience. With a unique position as a broker and MGU in this increasingly competitive environment, MSH International understands that clients are looking for flexibility, choice and products that respond to the needs of every traveler. MSH International can now bring all of those elements to its partners and customers alike.

“We are excited about the possibilities of this new partnership,” says Robin Ingle, CEO of MSH International and founder of Intrepid 24/7 and Imagine Financial, commenting on this exciting new growth initiative. “By merging our capabilities, our companies combined have the strength to take on the American health insurance market in an unprecedented way.”

MSH International would be thrilled to hear from interested partners looking to grow and strengthen their businesses.
